Class Descriptions

Home Visits

The New Parent Support Program (NPSP) can make home visits anywhere within a 60-mile radius of Fort Liberty to support any military-affiliated Families who are expecting a baby or have children under the age of 36 months. Home visitors provide support, mentor with parent and infant attachment, increase knowledge of child development, and connect Families to the support services parents need to help their Family thrive. The NPSP staff are licensed social workers and registered nurses who make these visits at no cost. Visits are voluntary and confidential; and daytime/evening visits are available.

Story and Play Mornings

Join us for Story time with the Throckmorton library staff immediately followed by songs, crafts and play time with NPSP. Parent/caregivers will learn tips and tricks for things they can do at home to continue the learning process. In addition, we will have songs, a craft, parenting education and your choice of outdoor play or stroller walks when weather permits.

Baby Book Club

Parenthood is a journey full of joy and angst. During pregnancy and the year after a baby is born, parents have a lot of feelings related to the adjustments of parenthood. We provide all parents the support, education, and community they need to flourish. Come join us as we bring parents together around babies and books. A free copy of the book we are reading is provided.

Preregistration encouraged but not required.

Expectant mothers and babies in arms are welcome.

Breastfeeding Class

Join the New Parent Support Program for an interactive prenatal breastfeeding class that will prepare Families and help set appropriate expectations prior to beginning the breastfeeding journey.

Breastfeeding Empowerment Group

Come meet other new mothers in our engaging Breastfeeding Support Group designed for new and expecting parents desiring to gain education, support, and empowerment. This group will help you reach your breastfeeding goals and gain the tools and knowledge to overcome common breastfeeding challenges.
