

Autism Resources for Military Families

Introduction:

This is not an official or professional resource guide; it is a product of a High School Senior Graduation Project. This a list of resources in Fort Bragg and the surrounding areas, but that does not mean those listed are the only resources in the areas. Information, services, numbers, names, and addresses may not be up to date. It is recommended you research any service or resource listed or included in this booklet you are interested in to confirm they are accurate.

Created by Madeline G. Walker

Special Thanks

To my two mentors who guided me and my efforts through this project: Ms. Connie McCreary and Mrs. Trish Schnabel.

To my mother and father who supported me in my effort, and my brother who inspired me to create this booklet.

Things you need to do when you move to the Fort Bragg area with a child with autism:

- Contact Army Community Service (ACS)/ Exceptional Family Member Program (EFMP)
- Complete prior research before moving to new location
- Contact Tricare if your region has changed, or if you are unsure if your region has changed
- Contact your Primary Care Manager (PCM) for any referrals or services needed, or if you suspect you have a child with autism

Families of a child diagnosed with autism may be eligible for the following services under TRICARE:

Applied Behavioral Analysis Services

Occupational Therapy (OT)

Physical Therapy (PT)

Speech Therapy

Feeding Therapy

Respite Care

Audiology Testing

Vision Testing

Genetic Testing

Neurology Testing

Allergy Testing

Sleep Studies

Listening Therapy

Assistive Technologies Services

EDIS (Birth to 3 years of age)
